

Jack's Pledge

Players Pledge

I pledge allegiance to the game of hockey, the fastest, hardest, most beautiful game in the world. Hockey is a state of extremes: extreme speed, extreme skill, extreme discipline.

Participation is a privilege extended to the toughest, the smartest, the best. As a member of this elite club, I pledge to uphold its code of honor: I play to win by being the toughest, the smartest, the best. I play to win by following the rules. I do not play to win by any other means.

I play the body to play the puck. I do not hit to hurt. I do not board. I do not cross-check. I do not check from behind. Ever.

When the whistle blows, I stop. When the puck drops, I go.

You are right to fear me, because I intend to beat you--not break you. We may wear different jerseys, but we are all on the same team: Jack's team. We are all hockey players. We all live in the same house. We are Scorers, Grinders, Stoppers, Playmakers, Superstars.

And we are Enforcers--Enforcers of Jack's Pledge.

Play safe.

Play smart.

Game on.
