TONIGHT’S TOP STORIES

• TONIGHT’S GAME -- The United States Olympic Women’s Ice Hockey Team faces Switzerland in both teams’ opening game at the XX Olympic Winter Games. In 2002, the United States earned a silver medal after posting a 4-1-0 record. Team USA’s lone loss came against Canada in the gold-medal game on Feb. 21. Switzerland is competing in the Olympic women’s ice hockey tournament for the first time. The two teams last faced each other at the 2004 International Ice Hockey Federation Women’s World Championship, where Team USA defeated Switzerland, 9-1. All-time, the USA owns a 4-0 series record against Switzerland, including a 48-4 goal differential.

• WELCOME TO TORINO -- Team USA arrived in Torino on Sunday, Feb. 5. The team has had five days of practice at Torino Esposizioni, and marched in the opening ceremonies last night.

• PRACTICES AND AVAILABILITY -- The upcoming practice schedule is as follows:
  - No Media Availability At Game Day Skates

• FOUR THREE-TIMERS -- Team USA’s roster is highlighted by four veterans entering their third Olympic Winter Games. The quartet of Jenny Potter (Edina, Minn.), Katie King (Salem, N.H.), Tricia Dunn-Luoma (Derry, N.H.) and Angela Ruggiero (Harper Woods, Mich.) has played every U.S. Olympic Women’s Ice Hockey game in history (11 games). The foursome is well-decorated as well, each with a gold and silver medal.

• NEWCOMERS -- Balancing the roster of veterans are 11 players entering their first Olympic Winter Games. The newcomers are as follows:

  - Caitlin Cahow
  - Pam Dreyer
  - Molly Engstrom
  - Chanda Gunn
  - Jamie Hagerman
  - Kathleen Kauth
  - Kristin King
  - Sarah Parsons
  - Helen Resor
  - Kelly Stephens
  - Kim Insalaco

• PRE-Olympic Training -- The U.S. Olympic Women’s Ice Hockey Team has been training since August 2005 when the team was selected following the USA Hockey National Women’s Festival in Lake Placid, N.Y.. In that time, the team completed the Hilton Family Skate to 2006 Tour, a 10-city, 11-game U.S. schedule, with a record of 9-2-0. The team also visited Torino in November and recorded a 2-2-0 mark in the Pre-Olympic Test Event. Rounding out its Olympic training, Team USA went 1-2-0 against Canada in the three-game “Battle of the Border” and earned a silver medal after posting a 2-2-0 record at the Women’s Four Nations Cup in Finland in September.

LAST TIME OUT: Team USA captain Krissy Wendell (Brooklyn Park, Minn.) had three points including a pair of goals as the U.S. Women’s National Team defeated Canada, 5-3, before 12,628 fans at Winnipeg’s MTS Centre on Jan. 1. The game marked the last meeting between the teams before these Olympic Winter Games.

Wendell got Team USA off to an early lead when she carried the puck around the back of the net and scored low to the glove-side just 21 seconds into the game.

Less than three minutes later, with Team USA in the box for body-checking, Gina Kingsbury knocked in a rebound to knot the score at one. At 14:16 Katie King (Salem, N.H.) carried the puck to the bottom of the right face-off circle where she fired it short-side for 2-1, USA.

Canada evened the tilt in the second period before Jenny Potter (Edina, Minn.) gave Team USA back the advantage early in the third. Canada tied it up four minutes later but Kristin King (Piqua, Ohio) made it 4-3 at 14:16 when she took an Angela Ruggiero (Harper Woods, Mich.) rebound and carried it through the crease before knocking it just inside the right post. Wendell put the game away at 17:07 when she fell to her knees in front of the net and directed the puck into the high corner for the final 5-3 score.

Pam Dreyer (Eagle River, Alaska) earned the win in net with 25 saves.

TOUR-DE-FORCE: The 2005-06 U.S. Women's National Team completed its 22-game pre-Olympic tour on Jan. 1 having posted a 15-7-0 record against international opponents from Canada, Finland and Sweden and collegiate all-star clubs from the Eastern College Athletic Conference Hockey League, Hockey East Association and Western Collegiate Hockey Association. Team USA's schedule included a silver-medal-winning performance at the Women's Four Nation's Cup in Hameenlinna, Finland; a second-place finish at the Pre-Olympic Test Event held in Torino, Italy; and a 9-2-0 record during the Hilton Family Skate to 2006 Tour, which included games in 10 cities across America in front of a total of 30,799 fans.

Team USA captain Krissy Wendell led the squad with 23 points (6-17), while Katie King and Jenny Potter tied for the team lead in goal scoring with nine tallies apiece.

IN JUST TWO YEARS: Natalie Darwitz ranks second on Minnesota's high school all-time scoring chart with 468 points in her career. The two-time Olympian had 316 goals and 152 assists to rank second despite only playing two years. Darwitz spent her junior year with the U.S. Women's National Team and spent her senior year with the U.S. Women's Olympic Team.

Player, Sr. year School Goals Assists Points
Renee Curtin, 2001 Roseville 332 212 544
Natalie Darwitz, 2002* Eagan 316 152 468
Ronda Curtin, 1999 Roseville 249 216 465

IN JUST THREE YEARS: After helping the University of Minnesota to back-to-back NCAA Women's Ice Hockey Championships in 2004 and 2005, Natalie Darwitz announced on Jan. 25 that she would forgo her senior year of eligibility. The 22-year-old leaves as the Golden Gopher's all-time leader in points with 246 (102-144) in just 99 games. Her 114 points (42-72) during her junior year also set an NCAA record. Darwitz is a three-time All-American, a three-time selection for the NCAA Division I ice hockey.

USA HOCKEY VETERANS: The 2006 U.S. Olympic Women's Ice Hockey Team is full of players with international experience. Nine players have competed in past Olympic Winter Games, with four (Katie King, Tricia Dunn-Luoma, Jenny Potter and Angela Ruggiero) capturing a first-ever gold medal awarded in women's hockey at the 1998 Olympic Winter Games in Nagano, Japan. Julie Chu, Natalie Darwitz, Courtney Kennedy, Lyndsay Wall and Krissy Wendell joined the four pioneers at the 2002 Olympic Winter Games in Salt Lake City, Utah, and helped Team USA capture silver.

Of the 11 Olympic newcomers, 10 (Caitlin Cahow, Molly Engstrom, Chanda Gunn, Jamie Hagerman, Kim Insalaco, Kathleen Kauth, Kristin King, Sarah Parsons, Helen Resor and Kelly Stephens) represented the United States at the 2005 International Ice Hockey Federation Women's World Championship this past April in Linkoping and Norrkoping, Sweden. Following a thrilling 1-0 shootout victory over rival Canada, Team USA captured gold, marking the first time in the tournament's history that a team other than Canada captured the top prize.

Pam Dreyer returned to Team USA and the U.S. Women's National Team on September 30, 2005, after suffering an injury at the 2004 Women's Four Nations Cup in Lake Placid, N.Y.

RED SOX FAN IN HIDING: Team USA goalkeeper Chanda Gunn (Huntington Beach, Calif.) has adopted a new superstition in these Games. The 26-year-old is sporting a New York Yankees hat, given to her by a friend over the holidays. Gunn, a self-proclaimed Red Sox fan, claims the hat is "lucky."

WISH THEY ALL COULD BE CALIFORNIA GIRLS: Add one to the list of Californians on the U.S. squad. Along with California natives Angela Ruggiero (Simi Valley) and Chanda Gunn (Huntington Beach), defenseman Lyndsay Wall (Visalia) was also born in the Golden State.

ALL-TIME OLYMPIC SERIES WITH SWITZERLAND:
This is the first meeting between the United States and Switzerland.

TEAM USA OLYMPIC STATS VS. SWITZERLAND
This is the first meeting between the United States and Switzerland.
HEAD COACH BEN SMITH: Ben Smith is making his third appearance as head coach of the U.S. Women's Olympic Team and his fourth Olympic appearance overall. Smith was appointed by USA Hockey as the first full time head coach of the U.S. Women's National and Olympic Teams in June of 1996.

A native of Gloucester, Mass., Smith guided the United States to a gold and silver medal at the 1998 and 2002 Olympic Winter Games. In April 2005, he led the U.S. Women's National Team to its first-ever gold medal at the International Ice Hockey Federation Women's World Championship. Smith's teams have also won five silver medals at the IIHF Women's World Championship and a gold and six silver medals at the Women's Three/Four Nations Cup.

On February 17, 1998, Smith helped put U.S. women's hockey on the map. He guided Team USA to a 3-1 victory over Canada at the XVII Olympic Winter Games in Nagano, Japan, as the United States claimed the first-ever Olympic gold medal awarded in women's ice hockey. The team's 6-0-0 run at the Olympics came after a 32-game pre-Olympic tour that saw the U.S. team finish with a 24-7-1 record.

In 2002, Smith again guided Team USA to a podium finish as the team earned the silver medal at the XIX Olympic Winter Games in Salt Lake City, Utah. The performance followed a perfect 31-0-0 run by the 2001-02 U.S. Women's National Team during the Visa Skate To Salt Lake Tour, which included an 8-0-0 mark against Canada.

On the men's side, Smith served as an assistant coach for three-straight U.S. National Junior Teams (1985-1987), and helped guide the 1986 team to the United States' first-ever medal – a bronze – at the IIHF World Junior Championship. In addition, he has twice served on the coaching staff for the U.S. Men's National Team (1987 and 1990) and served as an assistant coach for the 1988 U.S. Olympic Men's Ice Hockey Team. Smith's most recent men's assignment was as head coach of the 1998 U.S. Select Team.

A 1968 graduate of Harvard University, Smith spent nine seasons (1981-90) as the top assistant for the Boston University men's ice hockey program. In 1991, he accepted the reins of the Northeastern University men's ice hockey program and guided the team to an appearance in the 1994 NCAA Tournament. Smith also spent five years as an assistant men's ice hockey coach at Yale University (1976-81).

THEY SAID IT...

Coach Ben Smith on finding talent in non-traditional hockey markets as quoted in The Mercury News:
"We're getting a good representation of outstanding players from Florida, California, Texas, New Mexico. That's a tribute to what that '98 team delivered and what the spread of the NHL has meant, too."

On winning the pre-Olympic series finale vs. Canada as quoted in The Mercury News:
"Ending the series on a positive note was good, but as I told our players, they don't give out Olympic medals on New Year's Day."

On Title IX as quoted in The Mercury News:
"This continent has had the upper hand because of Canadian tradition and what the laws of the land are in the USA to the point where Title IX is so influential that it helps other countries. Good players from there are coming to school to play here."

Pam Dreyer on commuting from training sessions back home to Alaska as quoted on USAHockey.com:
"It's frustrating at times. After Christmas, we'll get together on December 26th. Most of the girls will leave will leave at 10 in the morning on Christmas Eve. I won't usually leave until 10 at night. The fastest I'll get home by air is in 10-and-a-half hours."

Krissy Wendell on her pre-game mindset as quoted in The Denver Post:
"I try not to think about the game. The more I think about it, the worse I do. If I'm not thinking about it, it's like being a child again, just going out and having fun. That's when I feel like I perform the best."

Molly Engstrom on remembering her roots as quoted in The Burnett County Sentinel:
"It's nice to get phone calls from home and so nice to have support back home. I don't feel like I'm in it on my own. It's very much appreciated. I'll never forget where my roots are."

Kelly Stephens on the support she receives from her family as quoted in The Shoreline Enterprise:
"I was very blessed, I have a really supportive family... I was very adamant this is what I wanted to do. They knew worst-case scenario I could always come home. They knew I was a pretty independent person. They kind of went with it and let me make some big decisions."
Traveling Chu’s: Julie Chu’s parents, Wah and Miriam, have busily been seeing the world one hockey tournament at a time. A fixture in the USA cheering section, the Chu’s have visited Sweden, Finland, Canada and Salt Lake City to watch Julie and the U.S. team compete in various tournaments. The Fairfield resident Chu’s are at tonight’s game, and will attend 10 of the 11 Hilton Family Skate to 2006 Tour games. If that wasn’t enough to show their support, the three (Julie, Wah & Miriam) have matching tattoos of the Olympic rings and Julie’s number 13.

Smart Jocks: Of Team USA’s 20 rostered players, 10 have or are in the process of earning their degrees from Ivy League Institutions. Angela Ruggiero and Jamie Hagerman are Harvard products while Caitlin Cahow and Julie Chu are still students in Cambridge. Kathleen Kauth, Katie King, Pam Dreyer and Kim Insalaco make up a quartet of Brown University grads Local product, Kristin King is a Dartmouth alumnus. Rounding out the group of Ivy Leaguers, Helen Resor is a student at Yale. A 12th student, Sarah Parsons, will join the illustrious 10 when she enters Dartmouth College next fall.

Team Mom: Jenny Potter, a two-time Olympic medalist, is the only mother on the team. Potter and her husband Rob are parents to four-year-old Madison, who was born in January, 2001. Less than three months after Madison was born, After intense training, which often meant toting young Madison to the gym with her, Jenny returned to international competition with the U.S. Women’s Team. Her new daughter watched the game with Rob. Madison is here in Torino and will see her mom play the opening game on Saturday.

No Joke: Courtney Kennedy is known by her teammates for her quick wit and ability to tell a joke. But another Kennedy is known by the laughter-loving crowds of Chicago. Courtney’s older brother, Mike, is currently part of the cast at Chicago’s famous Second City, well-known as the training ground for SNL.

Glamour Girls: Five members of the U.S. Women’s National Team played model for the day, shooting for the February issue of Glamour Magazine. Krissy Wendell (Brooklyn Park, Minn.), Natalie Darwitz (Eagan, Minn.), Tricia Dunn-Luoma (Derry, N.H.), Kelly Stephens (Seattle, Wash.), and Angela Ruggiero (Harper Woods, Mich.) braved the 105 degree-heat in Death Valley, Calif., to be photographed for the magazine’s “Strong Women are Beautiful” feature.

People Who Know People: Seven U.S. hockey players were featured in last week’s (Feb. 12) issue of People Magazine. The publication, which reaches 3.5 million readers, shot Jenny Potter (Edina, Minn.), Krissy Wendell (Brooklyn Park, Minn.), Katie King (Salem, N.H.), Chanda Gunn (Huntington Beach, Calif.), Angela Ruggiero (Harper Woods, Mich.), Kelly Stephens (Seattle, Wash.) and Julie Chu (Fairfield, Conn.) on the frozen Mirror Lake in Lake Placid, N.Y.
